SCHOOLS

Partnerships

A focus on project based and real world learning is evident in our schools. With partnerships with NASA, Jefferson Lab, ECPI, WHRO, civic organizations, Poquoson Education Foundation, and the Department of Defense our students are offered a multitude of experiences to help shape them for life.

Additional partnerships also provide our students to receive industry certifications through programs at Aviation Academy and New Horizons Career and Technical Center.

POQUOSON SCHOOLS

Instruction

With small class sizes and common planning for teams and departments, our staff have the ability to have a large impact on our students' daily lives.

Our teachers are highly certified and facilitate rigorous programs at an early age. Our elementary students all take a foreign language, students can start taking high school courses while in middle school, and our high school students consistently outperform state and national averages on the SAT. Our schools also offer award winning fine arts programs as well as interscholastic activities.

Technology

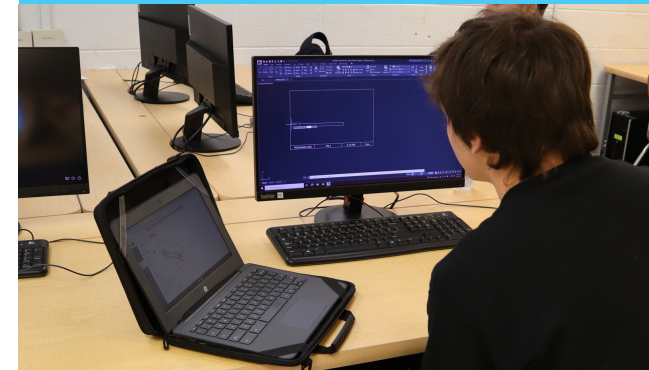

Equipped with anything you might need, Poquoson prides itself on being "ahead of the game." PCPS students have been one-to-one with additional computer labs available for any necessary desktop software.

Our classrooms are equipped with interactive projectors, document cameras, conference cameras, and computers provided for staff. With local grants being awarded every year, our staff can adjust to fit their changing instructional needs.

Support Services

Our schools provide collaborative leadership and support for our special education programs, preschool, Section 504 plans, assistive technology, health services, homeless education, talented and gifted, and English learners.

PCPS students consistently earn more than 300 Career and Technical Education credentials and routinely pass the WISE Financial Literacy Exam. Additionally, our high school students have various educational opportunities through our more than 25 AP courses and dual enrollment.

Athletics

Poquoson High School offers 26 Virginia High School League sponsored Sports and Academic Activities along with a wide variety of clubs. Each of these offers students the opportunity to learn teamwork, leadership, and character building skills.
